With generous praise from judges including team leader Charlie Young, who found this 'endlessly complex, unconventional and delicious', it's no surprise that a Critics' Choice award followed its elevation to Gold. Young described 'sweet spice and fennel, with ground nuts and sherry notes, as well as cloves and citrus', while Hakkasan Hanway Place's Oliver Nagy enjoyed its 'oxidative style, with crisp apple and citrus, and quite a rich palate, with good acidity and length.'
